Principal Says

Greeting Parents/Guardians of FLT Students:

We have completed 8 weeks of school. The first progress reports have gone home and report cards will be given at the end of the month. We have eight and a half more months of the school year left to ensure that our children have a successful academic year. Your support is key to helping our children do well academically.

Here are 5 ways you can help our children be successful students.

Send Your Child to School Ready to Learn

Make certain he/she gets the right amount of sleep to be alert and ready to learn all day. Most school age children need 10-12 hours of sleep at night. Lack of sleep can cause irritable or hyperactive behavior and might make it hard for kids to pay attention in class.

Teach Organizational Skills

Check your child's agenda, notebook, and folders every school night so you're familiar with assignments as well as behavior and social interaction successes and concerns from the teacher. Also, keep special bin or box for completed and graded projects and toss papers that you don't need to keep.

Teach Study Skills

Studying for a test can be scary for young children and many teachers assume parents will help their children during the grade school years. In elementary school, children usually take end-of-unit tests in math, spelling, reading, science, and social studies. Be sure you know when a test is scheduled so you can help your child study ahead of time rather than just the night before.

Know the Disciplinary Policies

At Furman, we cite the disciplinary policies in the parent and student handbook. The rules cover expectations for student behavior, dress code, use of electronic devices and attendance. You were also given the Baltimore City Schools Code of Conduct that shares policies and procedures addressing fighting, vandalism, and specific policies regarding bullying.

It's important that your child knows what's expected at school and that you'll support the school's consequences when expectations aren't met. It's easiest for students when expectations match the ones at home, so children see both environments as safe and caring places that work together as a team.

Please know that the school appreciates all that you do. We are a team that, together, will make this a successful school year for our children. Enjoy the Intersession Break!

Dr. Evelyn M. Perry, Principal

Core Value of the Month

This month's core value is responsibility. Responsibility is defined as the state or fact of having a duty to deal with something or having control over someone. How does responsibility translate itself throughout the classrooms and overall building at Furman? Well, it's the voice of encouragement and redirection of students from caring and loving adults. It is the active efforts of every staff member to ensure those same students are safe and learning each and every day. Here at Furman, we not only know, but believe we (parents, students, staff, and partners) are responsible for the success of each other because we are a family. It takes a village to raise a child and we are all powerful members of this Furman village, responsible for first ourselves and each other.

Responsibility: the opportunity or ability to act independently and make decisions without authorization.

Nine Ways to Take Responsibility for Your Life

- 1 Take responsibility for your thoughts, feelings, words and actions.
- 2 Stop blaming.
- 3 Stop complaining.
- 4 Refuse to take anything personal.
- 5 Make yourself happy.
- 6 Live in the present moment.
- 7 Use the power of intention.
- 8 Feel calm and confident.

Seven Ways to Build Highly Responsible Students

1. Help students set goals.
2. Help students plan their time.
3. Encourage and expect students to study every day.
4. Encourage and expect students to actively participate in class every day.
5. Teach students to always be prepared.
6. Show students the importance of keeping their commitments.
7. Show and expect students to get ready ahead of time.

YOU CANNOT ESCAPE
THE RESPONSIBILITY OF
TOMORROW BY EVADING IT TODAY.

Academic Content

Children enjoy reading about real people, places, and events. Nonfiction books and text present real material in fun and interesting ways. However, most kids read a lot more fiction than nonfiction, so spending some extra time helping your reader learn how to navigate a nonfiction book is key to your readers' success.

When talking about nonfiction books and text, begin by explaining that the book you're about to share is nonfiction. That means that the book will give information that is true and accurate. Students need to understand that the book will be organized around a specific topic or idea, and facts and new information should be learned during reading. During and after reading, ask and answer questions to understand what new information was gained through reading. Some kids even enjoy sorting their home libraries into fiction and nonfiction books. This simple categorization task helps your child understand the difference between fiction and nonfiction.

Choosing nonfiction books during break and even current events is always an engaging but simple way to promote reading at all ages. So pick up a nonfiction book and explore the world today!

Illuminating Intervention

All of the baseline assessments have been completed! Letters were sent home with students sharing their scores on the baseline assessments. Using the data from these assessments, students were identified for support in reading, math, or both. Letters were sent home with students that qualified on Thursday, September 26th, and intervention groups began to be pulled on Wednesday, September 18th. Students receiving intervention from an interventionist will be pulled out five days a week for 40-minute small group sessions. Students receiving support from Reading Partners will be pulled out 1 to 2 times a week for one-on-one support with a tutor.

The students in the Gifted and Advanced Learning program began their programming on September 18th. They will receive pull out services three times a week from Mrs. Benton as well as in-class support from their general educator(s). Each day the students are in their pull-out group, they will be working on Reading, Math, or Science/Projects. The reading program is Jacob's Ladder, the math program is M2 or M3, and the science/project day will be based upon the student preference sheets.

If you have any questions about what we are doing in intervention and/or want to know how to support your child at home, please stop by room 211! Mrs. Benton is available on Wednesdays to provide support for families. Please contact her by email at klbenton@bcps.k12.md.us or phone at 443.836.6439 to schedule an appointment.

Last month we also had our first Fitness Day Fundraiser. It was a great success and students enjoyed participating in the group workout and having a healthy snack! Our next fundraiser event will be November 14th. Though the extended summer temps these last few weeks do not make it seem like fall, it is officially fall! Here are 6 Tips for a Healthier Fall:

1. Pumpkins are full of Vitamin A and C and their seeds may help lower your cholesterol! Rather than just using them for decorations, check out some yummy pumpkin recipes!
2. Get your flu shot! No one wants to miss out on any fall fun with the flu.
3. Stay hydrated and eat well to prevent the cold, too! Staying hydrated and eating probiotic foods like yogurt can help build your immune system and help you fend off the common cold. Pumpkins are also great immune-builders!
4. Head outside to enjoy the weather before winter! Spending time outside increases your Vitamin D, which makes you happier and improves concentration! Playing with little ones for 30 minutes burns an average of 150 calories for a 150 lb. person. (People that weigh less would burn less while people that weigh more would burn more.) Not only will playing outside with your children help tire them out and improve their sleeping, but it can help you get a little healthier too! Plus everyone gets a dose of Vitamin D!
5. Stay aware from Halloween Cravings. Wait until the day before Halloween to buy candy or hide it in a cupboard so that it isn't tempting you. Spread the love of the candy over several days and weeks to prevent becoming a sugar zombie.
6. Eat like an athlete, not a couch potato on game day. Instead of indulging in chips and pizza, think about veggies and dip and baked chicken wings. Your heart and waistline will thank you!

Attendance Updates

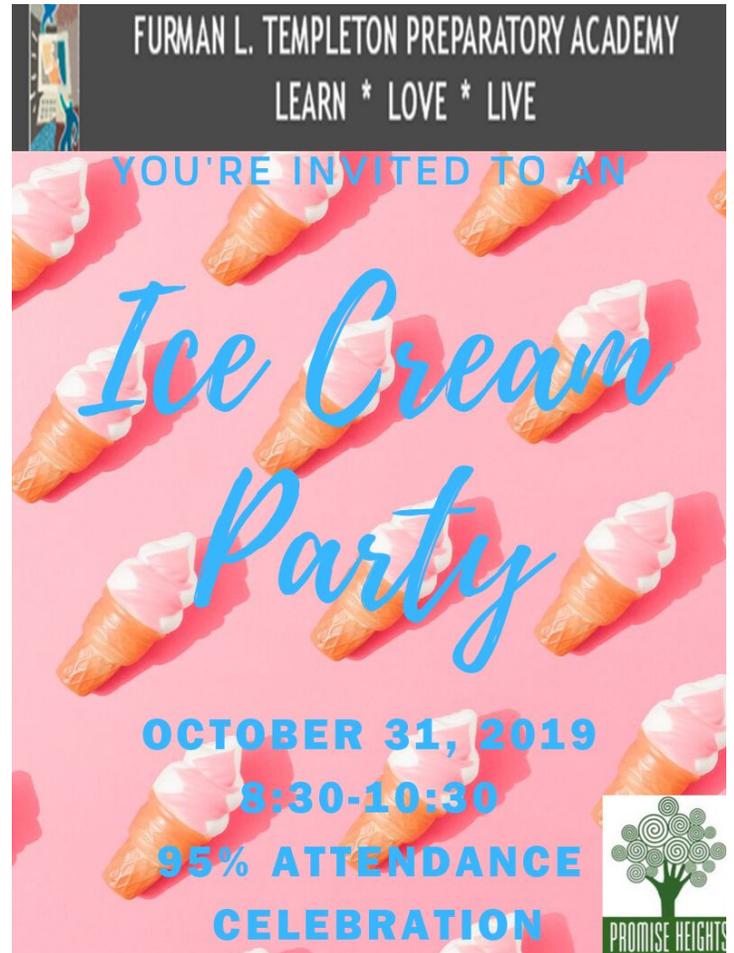

Attendance Plans

Tardy Program

Objective: Reduction of tardiness of students w/10+ tardy in a month to 5 or less tardy in a month.

Perfect Attendance Incentive

Plan: Each homeroom class has developed their own attendance plan and an incentive program. Talk to your child's homeroom teacher for details on what the attendance plan, so that your child can earn the incentive.

Attendance Percentages

FLT is serious about attendance. Our talented staff cannot teach unless students attend school. There is a district-wide focus on student attendance. Again this year, there will be mandatory hearings at school headquarters for the parents of students with poor attendance. Each month the newsletter will include this chart so students and parents can review attendance averages. Parents track your student's daily attendance.
